FARMINGTON Utah (ABC 4 Utah) – Thirty two years ago, Theresa Greaves made a phone to a friend and then vanished.

But now investigators with the Davis County Sheriff's Office said her remains were dumped in a shallow grave off of U.S. Highway 89. Last month authorities found a human skull and sent it to a state laboratory for analysis. They now confirm it was Greaves.

"We know it's Theresa" said Servey. "We know we need the public's help in this 32 year old case."

But how she ended up on the mountainside remains a mystery. Authorities said Greaves who was 23 at the time, left her mobile home near 900 West and 500 South in Woods Cross. The mobile home park has since changed ownership. They said Greaves then boarded a Utah Transit Authority (UTA) bus and headed to Salt Lake City for a job interview. They said she made a call from there and vanished. Investigators won't say how she died but are calling it a homicide.

"This is an active homicide investigation so we're unable to comment about a lot of the details surrounding her disappearance," said Servey.

In the past, Douglas Lovell who is on trial in Ogden for a 1980's murder was questioned. But Lovell denied any involvement. Investigators aren't saying if he is still a suspect.

"We are not announcing any people in particular, any suspects but we are following up on any leads that is generated," said Servey

Authorities won't say if there was any DNA found on the skull that would pinpoint a suspect. They claim the 1983 missing person's report generated a lot of information about her disappearance. But they still are seeking the public's help in hopes of solving this case.

"32 years is a long time and if anybody can remember these pictures of Theresa," said Servey. "Maybe you saw her on the streets of Bountiful or Woods Cross or heard someone mention her name."

Servey said Greaves is from New Jersey. She said Servey came to Utah when she was 18 years old. At the time of her death she had a Collingswood High School class ring. Servey said her next of kin have been hard to find.

The remains were first discovered in early February on a wooded slope off Mountain Road just east of Highway 89. They were painstakingly uncovered and marked during a grid search by Davis County Search and Rescue personnel according to Sergeant Dee Ann Servey.
